Mayor Disagrees With Numbers On School Budget

by Kathy Cassanelli News Editor

At its March 8th meeting, the School Committee began its budget deliberations for the fiscal

Superintendent of Schools Bernard Ryder presented the committee with a record-breaking request of $17,098,521, which represents an increase of 7.9% over last year's budget. After meeting with officials from the State Department of Education, Ryder said he expects the state will provide an additional $1.25 million in aid to Agawam schools to cover the 7.9% increase in his spending proposal.

Ryder said his figures from the state are "not perfect," but are the best approximation of expected state aid. Ryder told the committee, "If the actual dollars are not there, I will act

Mayor Disagrees With Predictions
Mayor Christopher C. Johnson sharply disagreed with Ryder's predictions on the amount of state aid Agawam will receive. According to Johnson, the governor's budget presently before the State Legislature shows only $700,000 or $800,000 in additional funds for Agawam schools.

Johnson said the superintendent's budget has been overspent by $400,000 to $500,000. Johnson said he would be giving his support to tentative approval of the budget requests based on need rather than on his expectation that the requests will be approved at the level presented by the superintendent.

Ryder said he began the budget process by asking principals and department heads to identify their needs as this was the first time in four or five years that a budget freeze was not anticipated.

Ryder said that despite being "flat footed" for the past three or four years, the school system was able to maintain its professional staff in times of extreme fiscal restraint. Hyder said, "We are at the point where we have to begin to spend a few additional dollars.'

Johnson disagreed with the concept that the School Department budget has been level-funded over the last few years.

"To sit back and say, to mislead the public, that the School Department budget has been level funded is simply, I'm sorry, a lie," Johnson said.

Johson said the School Department has received an increase of over $1 million dollars in the last two years and the department has added many positions as well.

Johnson strongly objected to the format of the budget proposal and asked Ryder to provide the committee with expense sheets for each line item in the cost centers to reflect what has already been spent of the money appropriated for each cost center, what amounts have been transferred, and what remains in each account.

Johnson said it would be a simple matter for the Superintendent's Office to prepare computer print-outs to detail the expenditures for each cost

Agawam Country Club Gets Operating Funds To Open

by Kathy Cassanelli

Mayor Christopher C. Johnson received Town Council approval of $159,245 to operate the Agawam Country Club for the remainder of fiscal year 1994 at a special meeting of the council on Monday, March 14th.

After a lengthy discussion of the golf course budget submitted by the Mayor, the council gave the proposal its unanimous approval.

Council rules requiring three readings of a resolution before the council can take action were suspended when the council voted to give the Mayor's proposal emergency status.

The request for emergency status squeaked by with the eight votes necessary for adoption. Council President James D. Taylor and Councilor Gary Suffriti voted against the emergency preamble. Councilor Vivian Dziardziel was absent when the vote was taken.

"I have a real problem when things come before us in an emergency preable," Suffriti said. "I don't see where this affects the health, safety, and

Johnson said the resolution called for emergency status to ensure that the tax bills for the second half of fiscal 1994 could be prepared and sent out in a timely manner.

Johnson said that under the rules of the State Department of Revenue, the town would have to appropriate the expected revenue from the golf course to run the operation for the remainder of fiscal 1994 (before the tax rate could be finalized). Johnson said if the council did not appropriate the funds, the town would be forced to transfer other funds to operate the course during fiscal 1994 or wait until fiscal 1995 (July 1st) to open the Basing his figures on a consultant's study of area golf courses and on information on the costs of public utilities necessary to run Agawam Country Club in the past, Johnson projected that the course would earn $163,146 for the 11-week golfing season remaining in fiscal 1994 (if the course opens during the third week of April as expected).

If the expected costs of running the golf course and the expected costs of failing the golf course estimate presented by the Mayor, the golf course enterprise fund will end fiscal 1994 with about $4,000 in the black.

Johnson said his estimates for projected revenue were deliberately "on the conservative side" to avoid an overly optimistic projection of the amount of money the town could expect the course to generate in its initial months of opera-

Johnson said the budget figures were based on 8,000 rounds of golf being played, which was 25 to 30 percent lower than the number of rounds predicted by the consultant's study.

Sponsorships & Other Advertising
Johnson said that the $17,500 estimated for advertising costs was balanced by an equal amount expected to be generated by the sale of sponsorships and other advertising opportunities at the club. Johnson said the golf commission envisions the advertising budget to be self-sustaining. "The golf commission has decided if the money doesn't come in, it doesn't go out," Johnson noted.

According to the Mayor, the golf course marketing strategy will focus on overcoming the bad reputation the country club has earned through years of neglect. "We have to let the world know there are now owners at the Accuse world know there are new owners at the Agawam Country Club ... and we want to make it a better place than it was."

Johnson complained that he was not consulted on this year's budget preparation as he had been in the past under the administration of former superintendent James V. Bruno, Jr.

$46,588, and $10,000 was set aside for equipment.
Councilor David Skolnick raised the spectre of legal entanglements ahead for the town by reading into the record a letter sent by Francis Callahan, executive director of the Pioneer Valley Building and Trades Council, AFL-CIO of Franklin, Hampden, and Hampshire Counties, to State Attorney General Scott Harbarger.

Callahan's letter was a protest of the town's decision to use town employees to renovate the existing clubhouse at the Agawam Country Club. In the letter, Callahan charges that Massachusetts General Law "requires the town to put this setts General Law "requires the town to put this project out to competitive bid."

Callahan cautions, "The town also faces the potential liability of triple back wages for all public amplements." public employees who perform work on this project and were not paid prevailing wages.

Aware of Callahan's letter, Johnson said he has been in communication with the Attorney General's office and believes the town is on firm ground. Johnson said he expects to have more concrete information from the Attorney General's office by March 18th.

After the meeting, Skolnick said he was worried about the possible ramifications of the letter to the taxpayers of Agawam. "This could be a bombshell," Skolnick said.

According to the information contained in the school budget, base pay for starting teachers is $23,429 and the top base pay is $42,525. The average base pay for teachers is $37,893.

Teachers salaries reflect a 4.5% increase as negotiated in their contract.

The School Committee gave its tentative approval for the seven cost centers presented at the meeting. The committee is expected to examine a second group of cost centers at its next meeting. Separate workshop meetings may be held to consider some of the larger cost center due to the time constraints of the regular committee

Veterans' Services Are There For Vets & Their Families

by Ruth A. Bitzas
Director/Agent · Western Hampden District
Department of Veterans' Services

The present Massachusetts laws relating to veterans and their dependents administered by the State, local and district Departments of Veterans' Services provides for two major programs. One pertains to services, the other to financial aid and assistance known as Veterans'Benefits under the guidelines of Chapter 115 of the Mass. General Laws.

To most of us, the history of our program goes back to the beginning of our present State program in 1945. Actually, it goes back over 100 years, and beginning with Chapter 222 of the Acts of 1861, a program of aid and services to veterans has evolved by statute and administration to the present functioning of Veterans' Benefits and services.

Within 25 years of the passage of Chapter 222, "The Civil War Financial Relief Act," a law that protected the defenders of the union from the stigma of pauperism, under the then "poor laws," it became apparent that the federal government was not allowing certain benefits to veterans based upon their eligibility to "poor aid." This caused the states undue burden as veterans couldn't file for federal benefits such as pensions, bounties or

As a result, the Governor of Massachusetts authorized, with the advice of and consent of the council, appointments of State Agents for the settlement of pensions, bounty and payback claims by citizens of the Commonwealth to the federal government, thus "An Act to Expedite the Settlement of Claims for Pensions" was approved and enacted on May 23rd, 1888.

This program became an official "service" of the Commonwealth, to function side by side with the Veterans' "Benefits" financial state aid program. Assisting veterans with federal claims resulted in a direct savings to the Commonwealth.

gram. Assisting veterans with federal claims resulted in a direct savings to the Commonwealth. To the present day, Veterans' Agents for the Commonwealth are authorized by the State to file for all federal benefits on behalf of the veterans, such as Non-service Connected Pension, Compensation, Widows' Pensions, Dependents' Indemnity Compensation, Educational and Insurance Benefits, as well as Burial Benefits and others too numerous to mention.

Since my appointment in September of 1982 as your district agent for Western Hampden District, the total amount of services secured from the federal government on behalf of district veterans totaled almost $3 million, and our 1992-1993 total is $255,760.00 just received from Department of Veterans' Affairs. These monies were paid directly from the federal Department of Veterans' Affairs and processing of these claims are credited to our district office.

"Benefits" are those received by veterans and/or dependents from the Commonwealth of Massachusetts and the Town of residence. Monies expended by Veterans' Agent of each town is reimbursed by the state at the rate of 75 percent.

In 1890, the expression "Soldiers Relief" was first used, and by Chapter 447 of that year, veterans were classified wholly apart from paupers. The law provided that, "No beneficiary shall be required to accept assistance in any alms house or public institution." Chapter 279 of the Acts of 1893 provided payment to be made at home or some suitable place determined by the Mayor or

In 1897, the legislature created a Soldiers' Relief Department in the City of Boston. The law became Section 18 and ultimately Chapter 115 of the Mass. General Laws. When the law was enacted, which placed Soldiers' Relief under the adminstration of the Commissioner's Office, it was done with the intent that no veteran would ever be classified a pauper if he fell into unfortunate circumstance. Times may have changed, but our commitment to veterans has not and should not.

As you are aware, Chapter 115 benefits are provided through our office. The program is based upon war-time service, character of discharge, eligibility requirement, and need. Financial and medical assistance is available as well as guidance through the various agencies such as Social Security Benefits and Supplemental Security Income, fuel assistance, food stamps, and all available benefits. We check newspapers daily and send letters on behalf of towns and invite widows to come in to discuss possible benefits.

We are a one-stop center for district veterans, our purpose is to assist wherever we can. Massachusetts is first in its care and concern for our veteran population, and we can be duly proud of member towns in their commitment to those who fought to protect and maintain our precious freedoms.

Our office is located in the Agawam Town Hall. We have a handicapped entrance on the right side of the building, with a handicapped parking area. Our telephone number is 786-0400, ext. 236 or 237. Business hours are from 8:30 a.m. until 12:00 noon and 1:00 to 4:00 p.m., Monday through Friday (except holidays).

As Director of the district, I am required to make home investigations in all four towns as well as hospital visits, conferences to keep abreast of changes, and periodic trips to the state office in Boston. For your convenience, I would suggest you call ahead for an appointment and please keep in mind, if you are unable to come in, I do make house calls through the district make house calls through the district.

Veterans and their families with any questions regarding the various programs and eligibility for same are encouraged to call, keeping in mind that while there are many benefits available, you're not eligible unless you apply.

Hometown Newspaper & New Community Get High Marks

To The Editor:

I wanted to thank The Agawam Advertiser News for helping me feel at home in my new place of residence.

I recently moved here from Eastern Massachusetts to take a job in Springfield. Being single and living in a new area is difficult, but I enjoy learning about my new "hometown" through your weekly

I also wanted to let my new community know about a conversation I overheard at the Stop and Shop in line. I heard several teenaged kids talking about a ski meet and how well their team did. I then heard them say that they saw their school principal at the ski meet and that they were "psyched"! How wonderful! That principal's small gesture gave them a little boost in the school pride area.

Agawam is quickly becoming "home" for me, and I wanted to let you know what a wonderful job you are doing as a newspaper. It's also great to hear community people speak so positively about small but special moments.

Most sincerely yours, A new Agawam resident, Ms. Susan J. Smith

Why Donating Your Organs Can Save Lives

To The Editor:

In July of 1993, an appeal was made by Reginald Poirier of River Road, Agawam for donations to help his daughter, Shirley Belden, formerly of Agawam and now living in Sierra Vista, Arizona, who had a diseased liver, no insurance, and no way to afford the $200,000 transplant she desperately needed.

Through much publicity, four people from Arizona set up a fund for her. The fund reached $100,000, but it was not enough. Then miraculously, Shirley was accepted by an insurance company and she was immediately placed on a priority list for a donor.

In late February, a compatible liver was available and the transplant was done at University Medical Center in Tuscon, Arizona. The operation lasted 14 hours. Shirley responded well and is recovering very well with all life supports removed. Mr. Poirier talks to her on the phone daily and reports that she will be released from the hospital

Because the funds were donated to a non-profit organization, they cannot be returned. Therefore, they will remain in an account and will be used for someone else who needs a transplant but has no way to fund it. So it will be an ongoing fund.

Mr. Poirier would like to THANK all of his friends and relatives for the tremendous response to his appeal for donations. The tremendous response to his appeal for donations and prayers, including members of the local Polish Club, the Elks Club, UNICO Club, and two funeral homes.

I would also like to appeal to people to think about making organ donations. There are so many lives that can be saved, but many more organs must be made available.

Only when someone close to you needs something like this do you realize how important it can be to save a life. So, PLEASE consider it in God bless you.

With Sincere Thanks Reginald Poirier

The John F. Kennedy Council No. 5585 of the Knights of Columbus based at St. John the Evangelist Church, Agawam, would like to thank the citizens of our town for their tremendous support of our third annual Winter Craft Fair.

Without this support, we would not be able to continue our local charitable and civic work; e.g., support of the Renaissance program at Agawam High School and the Teen Encounter Program of Western Mass., etc.

The Order's charitable focus, financed by the annual Tootsie Roll Campaign, has been helping mentally and physically handicapped men and women of all ages, and mentally disabled youths in particular.

You may have seen us at the Agawam-West Springfield bridge during the Big E. Dressed in our bright yellow aprons and hats, we would have been handing out Tootsie Rolls to all who passed by. Through your generosity, we were able to raise over $5,700 to be used in this worthwhile

Vested Interests Addressed In Community AIDS Debate

I am convinced that one of the major health problems in the world is directly related to the question of the existence of GOD. It may seem that a disease like AIDS is a medical problem or a social problem, but media treatment and sex education programs increasingly suggest that there are vested interests in the way the AIDS question is being handled in our community.

A powerful argument for the existence of GOD and for the inspiration of the Bible is the argument from morality. How a human makes moral decisions is rooted in what he believes about decisions is rooted in what he believes about GOD. There has never been a system, outside of one based upon religious belief, that has worked. History is full of great philosophical works by people like Ayn Rand and Berttrand Russell, but their systems failed even for them. The biblical system, on the other hand, works without question. Abstinence, self-discipline, and thinking of the other person are flawless moral methodologies. methodologies.

That is why Sex Respect is an excellent curriculum for our students. Our present program on AIDS is confusing to me and for others. Example: Tuesday evening at the Middle School, a nurse stated HIV positive meant you had AIDS, while at the High School on Wednesday, the speakers who were HIV positive stated that HIV positive does not mean you have AIDS. Confused?

Our School Committee seems to have a love affair with condoms. They are resisting the Sex Respect program by their remarks. The condom instruction is all that the children need according to them. They fail to read FDA reports that will not brand condoms as birth control devices ... because they are not reliable.

Abstinence is 100 percent safe if taught by a teacher that believes in it, but I doubt that anyone on the School Committee has ever attended a lecture on abstinence. They will find that it involves more than two sentences.

Our present program is immoral, gives false security, and puts our children at risk. As Dr. Greatbatch, inventor of the pacemaker, says, "A condom will not keep you from getting AIDS; it will only put off the time until you get it."

We cannot save the world, as there are lawbreakers. Please call the School Committee members and persuade them to take on the Abstinence Program ... the safer road to hap-

AHS Ski Parents Thank The Public For Its Support

To The Editor:
We would like to give a big "thank you" from the Ski Parents Association and Ski Team to all the area businesses, residents, and The Agawam

Advertiser, who have given their support this year both financially and morally.

As our daughter is a senior, we will no longer be actively involved in the Ski Parents Association, but we do want to take this opportunity to publicly thank Coach Graveline and Coach Olsen for their continued dedication to the sport through some of the most severe winters we can imagine.

Another thank you to the coaches for the special plaque that was given to us from them at our banquet; it will always remind us of many special moments.

Last but not least, a final "special" thank you to the rest of the Parents Association Board, Larry Scherpa, and Ed McDade, who exemplify the true meaning of parents who care. Your support these past years has been more than appreciated. We worked well together as a team, and as a team we wish all the best to next year's ski parents and ski team. We'll miss you. Sincerely, Agawam Ski Parents Association Sandra DeLuce, Secretary John DeLuce, President

My Pearl

Marth 17th that bright green morn A little special jewel was born She is so special to the world My oyster with a precious pearl

Rough around the outside But beautiful and wise When she opens up her heart She's full of wonderful surprise

New beginning with distant dreams And stories still untold Each day brings new adventure As she grows with future goals

Mother of pearl complexion With eyes of deep sea sand Her hair shines bright with glowing sun With tiny soft white hands

She's grown to be a lady With a face of bright moon beams More beautiful than ever My pearl has turned sixteen.

Some Tips On Home Security

by Detective Wayne Macey Agawam Police Department

It is a fact that if someone wants to get inside your home bad enough, they will find a way. This should in no way, however, keep the homeowner from doing everything within his/her power to stop the burglar dead in his tracks.

In order to preserve the sanctity of our home and the property we value from within, we owe it to ourselves and our family to maintain a secure environment. Let us say, for the sake of argument.

environment. Let us say, for the sake of argument, that the burglar has sized up our home and decided we are ripe for the picking. He approaches the back door because it provides the best amount of privacy and room to remove large items.

It is here that he first experiences the agony of defeat. Instead of the usual hollow core wooden door with windows at the top, he encounters a METAL or SOLID CORE wooden door. Hinges are either on the inside or have been welded at the hinge pin. There are no windows which can be cut, peeled, or broken.

Hitting him right square in the eye is a security alarm sticker asking him if he feels lucky. Looking down at the doorknob, he observes a double cylinder deadbolt with a solid steel core deadbolt projecting through the jamb and into the studding for a full inch; 2½-inch wood screws secure the sticker plate to the door stud.

In what would appear to be a somewhat agitated state, the burglar now moves on to the window just over the hatchway. Although he observes the window latch to be in the lock position, he is confident he can defeat the inferior metal of which it is constructed. He pushes, pulls, grunts, strains, and moans, but to no avail.

It is apparent to him at this time that the owner has drilled a hole at a slight downward angle through both sashes. By placing a spike into the sash, the window is now doubled locked.

The now thoroughly depressed burglar moves on to his last resort—the sliding glass door on the deck in the back. His last hopes are dashed as he observes a broomstick handle placed into the track to prevent the door from sliding should the lock be defeated. Trying to lift the door in its tracks is impossible because the owner has placed screws protruding from the upper door track to eliminate play above the door.

Feeling a bit suicidal (but lacking the guts to do the right thing for society), he looks to the neighbor's house where he sees the garage door open and no cars in the driveway. With need bond hope in his heart, he slithers across the yard, hops the fence, and arrives at the home of someone who will most assuredly donate to the cause.

Reporting A Fire... Or Any Emergency

All too frequently we hear of tragic stories regarding people who call to report their house is on fire, yet in their fright forget to tell the fire dispatcher their address. Others claim they called the fire department and the dispatcher kept them on the telephone asking questions.

However, what seems (at the time) like needless questions will actually aid the fire department in getting assistance quickly to your

IRS Entrusts Business As Being Caretakers Of Withholding Funds

Every business, if it is going to succeed, needs to manage its funds wisely. Sometimes, when money is tight, a business owner looks for "creative" ways to meet obligations. One area, though, should never be touched. That area is trust fund money.

Trust fund moneys are the federal income taxes and employee's portion of social security taxes that you withheld from your employees' pay. Depending on the business, they may also include withheld railroad retirement and collected excise taxes.

Every cent of the trust fund money you deduct from your employees' pay is money they earned and money for the taxes they owe. You are their trustee until you actually deposit the money. In a traditional trust fund, a trustee is charged with looking after someone else's money or assets for a period of time. In much the same way, you automatically become the temporary trustee of the money you withhold from your employees' paychecks. It may be sitting in your bank account, but legally, it's no longer your money.

If you, as trustee, either do not withhold or collect these taxes, or you collect the taxes but do not deposit them as provided by law, you may be subject to a trust fund recovery penalty equal to the amount of trust fund taxes that should have been collected and deposited

The trustee doesn't have to be you; it may be any officer of a corporation, a member of a partnership, an individual who operates a business, an employee, or any other person who can control where the funds go.

To be subject to the trust fund recovery penalty, the trustee must intentionally choose to disregard the law. If you know about the unpaid taxes and use the funds to keep the business going or allow available funds to be paid to other creditors, you are showing willful disregard of the trust fund law, and are liable for all penalties under that law as a responsible person.

The easiest way to avoid using trust funds for other business debts is to open a special checking account solely for payroll and withholding taxes. By keeping the money in the account thoroughly separate from any regular business accounts, you will have the money available when the time comes to make your federal tax deposits or pay the taxes to the IRS.

The penalty for not keeping these trust funds safe until time to pay them is a violation under section 6672 of the Internal Revenue Code, and a business concern. The IRS can collect the Trust Fund Recovery Penalty, assessed against the responsible person through levies and seizures of assets personally belonging to that person.

More information on the Trust Fund Recovery Penalty is contained in Publication 594, Understanding the Collection Process, available free by calling the IRS at 1-800-829-3676

IRS Has Simple Recommendation For People In Business: "Stay Clean"

You can't run from it! You can't hide it! There's no way around keeping your business "clean" when it comes to cash transactions. Receipts of more than $10,000 in one or more related transactions in your business must be reported to the Internal Revenue Service. When the law is not followed, severe criminal penalties are assessed on money launderers.

Money laundering is the process of transferring or converting funds to conceal the funds or to disguise their source or nature. The common perception of money laundering involves the proceeds from illegal activities, such as drug trafficking. However, even funds from otherwise legitimate activities are sometimes "laundered" to hide their existence.

"Structuring" is the intentional division of a transaction into a series of transactions, to disguise its real nature and to avoid Form 8300 reporting requirements. A person may make two or more related cash transactions, each less than $10,000, but together totalling more than $10,000. Businesses receiving such "structured" payments still must report them to the IRS when the total exceeds $10,000.

The term "cash" includes bills, coins, cashier's checks, bank drafts, traveler's checks, and money orders if they have a face value of not more than $10,000 received in a designated reporting transaction. This also applies to any transaction in which the payor is trying to avoid the reporting of the transaction on Form 8300.

There are criminal penalties for willfully failing to file a report, willfully filing false or fraudulent reports, stopping or trying to stop a report from being filed, or "structuring" transactions to avoid a report. Under Title 18 of the United States Code, if you willingly fail to file Form 8300, the penalties could be as much as $250,000 ($500,000 for corporations), a prison sentence of up to five years, or both. Civil penalties can apply to those who fail to file a correct Form 8300, provide the required statement to those named in the Form 8300, or comply with other information reporting requirements.

Form 8300, "Report of Cash Payments Over $10,000 Received in a Trade or Business," was created as a means of reporting cash payments received by businesses, including auto dealers, insurance agencies, real estate agents, and jewelers. Form 8300 requests information that identifies who made the payment, anyone else on whose behalf the payment was made, a description of the transaction (including method of payment), and the business reporting the payment. The form must be completed and submitted to the IRS within 15 days of receipt of the payment. If the cash was received in a number of payments, Form 8300 must be submitted within 15 days after receipt of the payment that pushed the total over $10,000.

Publication 1544, Reporting Cash Payments of Over $10,000 (Received in a Trade or Business), covers who must file, as well as why, when and where to file, and has a filled-in sample of Form 8300. It also discusses the substantial penalties for not reporting cash payments. To get Publication 1544 or Form 8300, call the IRS at 1-800-829-3676.

IRS Allows Business Owners To Opt For First Year Expense Deducation

Opening a new business can be an expensive undertaking. During the first year, owners may find their "outgo" a lot greater than their income. But the Internal Revenue Code may offer some help to the new business owner, and others, who buy and place in service qualifying business pro-

Generally, when you buy business property that has a useful life of more than one year, you must depreciate it; that is, you spread your cost over the life of the property. This means it could take you three, five, seven, or more years to deduct your cost on your tax return.

Section 179 of the Code allows you to treat some or all of certain costs as a current year expense, subject to certain limitations. This may be particularly important to a new business owner because it may allow you to deduct the cost of some business property the same year you purchase and begin to use it. You will often hear this Section 179 property must be depreciable property and generally includes tangible personal property like machinery, office equipment, and cars and trucks. Buildings and their structural components do not qualify for the section 179 deduction.

To claim a deduction under section 179, you must make your choice the year you place the qualifying property in service. For property placed in service in taxable years beginning after December 31st, 1992, the total annual deduction is limited to $17,500 per taxpayer; recently increased from $10,000 in previous years after a law change. Other limitations may also apply. IRS Publication 534, Depreciation, has additional information on the section 179 deduction. #### Agawam Youngster Accepts Fishing Derby Proceeds For MDA

by Cheryl Bruno Advertiser News Feature Writer

As the Goodwill Ambassador of the Muscular Dystrophy Association (MDA) for 1993-1994, Ronald "Rono" Dutton, Jr., of Agawam recently had the privilege of accepting a check from the proprietors of Barb's Sport Center, a long-time supporter of the MDA.

The Carpenter family, owners of Barb's Sport Center on 258 Feeding Hills in Southwick, have served the needs of area sports enthusiasts for the past 22 years. They have developed lasting friendships and their customers are now a part of the Carpenter's extended family.

Ten years ago, another very special group joined the warmth of their extended family. The MDA and its clients have benefitted from 10 annual ice fishing derbies sponsored by the Carpenter family and Barb's Sport Center. This year marked the 10th anniversary of Barb's Ice Fishing Derby to benefit the MDA, and a check for $930 was presented to Rono Dutton, Jr., following the conclusion of the derby. (This year's check, by the way, represented a 40 percent increase over last year's donation from Barb's Sport Center.)

"A Worthwhile Cause..." The Carpenter family always enjoyed watching the Muscular Dystrophy Telethons and were touched by what they saw and heard, "We thought the Muscular Dystrophy Association was a wonderful cause and very worthwhile," the family told us, "and 10 years ago we decided to organize an Ice Fishing Derby and denate its proorganize an Ice Fishing Derby and donate its proceeds to the MDA.

Over the course of the seven-week derby, avid ice fishermen would register at Barb's Sport Center and pay the minimum $1.50 fee as a donation to Muscular Dystrophy. At the conclusion of the Ice Fishing Derby, a raffle for prizes was held, and the drawing and check presentation turned into an old-fashioned party complete with "humungous fish stories," jokes, comradery, and refreshments: punch and coffee were served, along with Barb's famous apple squares and brownies.

The nice thing about the derby raffle was that anyone could win (you needn't have caught the largest fish), and the grand prize was a Jiffy power ice auger valued at $250. which was donated by Barb's Sport Center. Names were drawn from a hat, and the elated grand prize winner was Francis Mason

In this Ice Fishing Derby, the fish are measured rather than weighed (for better accuracy). Some of the largest fish caught during the derby were a 1634" pickerel, a 297/8" pike, a 143/8" perch, a 215/8" trout, a 21" bass, and a 151/6" calico.

In addition to generating a lot of pride, many great fish stories, and some wonderful wintertime sport, Barb's Sport Center's Ice Fishing Derby also generated a $930 donation to a very worthwhile cause.

On behalf of everyone affiliated with the Muscular Dystrophy Association, Rono Dutton gratefully accepted the check to the MDA and thanked the Carpenter family and all of the derby participants who made the generous donation

Rev. Stephen Dennehy Loves New Chores At Valley Community Church In F.H.

by Peggy Shoemaker Advertiser News Feature Writer

The Reverend Stephen Charles Dennehy, who has been filling in at the Valley Community Church on South Westfield Street, Feeding Hills, was officially named associate minister of the "Church on the Hill" on March 1st.

Rev. Dennehy has been filling in for Reverend Dr. Robert Murray, pastor, who left the church on a two-year sabbatical leave in May 1993. Rev. Dennehy has been filling in since October and the church officially made him associate minister this month. He received the call from Deaconess Lois McCarl on behalf of the administrative board of the church.

Rev. Dennehy moved to West Springfield in 1988 and resides on Sawmill Road with his wife, Sally, a homemaker. The couple has two children: a son, Geoffrey, who is studying biological engineering at Westfield State College; and a daughter Heather majoring in liberal arts at the daughter, Heather, majoring in liberal arts at the University of Massachusetts. The minister is employed full-time in the Computer Data Division of Massachusetts Mutual Life Insurance Co.

REV. STEPHEN C. DENNEHY

A tall, pleasant person, Rev. Dennehy was born and raised in a family of eight children in the north end of London, England, where most of his family still lives. He came to the United States in 1970 to take computer science and business at Rutgers University in New Jersey.

He did not become a Christian until 1980, Dennehy said in a recent interview. Later, he attended the Lutheran Theological Seminary in Philadelphia to become a Methodist minister. Students at this seminary are of many denominations, he explained, but each takes a core course in the denomination he is majoring in. Valley Community Church is denominationally unaffiliated.

Of Rev. Dennehy's three brothers and four sisters, one brother, Peter, lives in Australia, and one sister, Patricia, lives in Philadelphia. The other five siblings live in London, as does their mother, Mary. Their father died two years ago. "We are a musical family," the minister said. "Most of us play instruments and when we get together, we have some great sing-a-longs. That is one of the things I miss."

Since October, Rev. Dennehy has been conducting the 10:00 a.m. Sunday services at the local church, and since January has also conducted special day services (such as Ash Wednesday) and participated in Bible Study and visitations ("which I love," he said). All of the services are on Sundays or evenings, thereby enabling Rev. Dennehy to do them.

Celebrating With Prayer And Music
Celebration in the form of prayer and music is emphasized in the services, which are centered on the challenge to the congregation—the minister's preaching from "the word" challenging the congregation to live more fully in Christ's image.
"The service is very uplifting, loving, and exciting," the minister said. "We do a lot of singling."

and use modern music, as well as evangelical revival music and old-fashioned hymns, which is a lovely balance. We have a fantastic choir."

Valley Community Church is beautiful, Rev.

Dennehy said, and it is simple: "The congregation has lots of very gifted people."

As an example, he noted two persons who do an excellent job with children's sermons, and they also do children's theater in town.

In addition to his full-time job and assistant ministerial duties, Rev. Dennehy is active in local and international missionary work among the poor. He is on the board of El Instituto Da La Familia (the institute of the family), a social service agency in the Spanish north end of Spr ingfield.

Last summer, he organized a group from among various churches to work as laborers in Chimultango, Guatamala. They poured concrete for homes in the city 50 miles from Guatamala City. This summer, he hopes to return to Guatamala for a shorter period of 10 days to paint homes.
"We will have a chance to see how our concrete work held up," he joked. He would like the local church to become more involved in local and international missions.

In addition to his love of music (he plays several instruments, the guitar sometimes at church services), he has many hobbies. He cited woodworking (which he does in his garage) and oil painting.
"I love both of these, but I've not had much time for them lately," he said.
Rev. Dennehy's dream is to have a church of his own, as full-time pastor.

In answer to a question of whether he would take such a call if it came now, he said, "I would pray on it. That's what you have to do. You know when a thing is right. This church feels right; it is good, exciting, and challenging. And I love to be

Bethany Assembly "Walking Thru" New Testament

On April 8th and 9th, the Walk Thru the New Testament Seminar will be conducted at Bethany Church in Agawam. Like the Old Testament seminar which was conducted last year, the New Testament seminar utilizes interactive learning techniques to help people absorb remember — the key characters, geography, and major themes of the entire New Testament.

Auditorium floors become "maps" with "Bible lands and waters." The vibrant teaching is frequently punctuated by hand movements and group recitations. In just six hours, virtually anyone can master a survey of the New Testament, even with little prior Bible knowledge.

While many people may feel that the New Testament is more familiar than the Old, they are consistently amazed when they find out what they didn't know. According to Pastor Brian Tracy of Bethany Church, "A lot of people know some of the highlights of the New Testament.

But they don't know how it all fits together. After the Walk Thru the New Testament seminar, they won't have to fumble to find a topic in the Epistles, because the key concepts will already be locked in their memory.

"They won't just know what Christ said, but when and where He said it and why. In other words, their spiritual lives will be revitalized as they gain a more intimate understanding of the Bi-

Seminar attendees will also receive a survey of the "400 Silent Years," the period of history occurring between the Old and New Testaments.

Anyone interested in attending the seminar should contact Pastor Brian Tracy at Bethany Church at 789-2930.

Walk Thru the New Testament seminars are conducted by teachers from Walk Thru the Bible, a unique education ministry headquartered in Atlanta, Georgia. Literally millions of people have attended Walk Thru the Bible's Old and New Testament seminars all over the United States, Canada, Australia, New Zealand, Singapore, Spain, Germany, England, Brazil, and Spanish-speaking Latin America, making them the most popular non-broadcast teaching seminars in the "We Never Miss This Supper..."

Team-Up With Realtor Who Works For You!

Common sense tells us that working as a team with a professional real estate agent will make home buying and selling a quicker and easier experience. During the process of choosing an agent, finding a home, securing a mortgage, listing a home, marketing it, and eventually either completing a purchase or a sale, there are several steps buyers/sellers can take to create a rapport with a real estate professional.

A sense of teamwork will motivate agents to perform at their highest level. Nothing ruins a good working relationship more than snopping around for alternative representation during the transaction. Stick to one agent and they'll reward you by going that extra mile to sell or buy your house.

When choosing an agent, find out who they are working for (buyer/seller or both). Determine if the agent is willing and able to work for you throughout the buy/sell process. Most states require full disclosure regarding agency relationships with buyers and sellers at the first personal meeting with a real estate agent.

Before searching for your dream home, your real estate agent should prequalify you to determine how much home you can afford. Be completely candid about your income and debt. Most sales associates can save you time and money during this process by recommending specific mortgages to fit your needs. Lenders can also quicken the process if they know all the facts.

When previewing homes to buy, give honest feedback to your agent who is working for you. If you don't like the neighborhood or the layout of the rooms, let your sales associate know. It help them zero in on the kind of home you want to buy.

If you are selling your home, spend time with your agent to calculate an accurate listing price for your property. Many times sales associates will compare your property with similar properties in your neighborhood that are on the market and homes that were sold in the last few months, often referred to as a "Comparative Market Evaluation." This step can sometimes take longer than necessary if a seller has an unrealistic view of their home's worth. Be objective and find a listing price that buyers will accept.

Some states have laws that require home sellers to disclose all structural defects of their property, so be up front with your agent. Withholding such information will only work against you in the end by either slowing the sale or possibly resulting in a legal dispute.

Make your home easily accessible for your agent when the time comes to show it to potential buyers. Your agent will suggest a method which may include installing an outdoor lock box to securely provide the agent with a house key when you're not available.

Teaming up with a professional real estate agent and communicating your true feelings on price, location, and appearance to your agent will go a long way towards expediting a transaction—and will help make your next home buying or selling experience rewarding.

Agawam Native Saves R.I. Boy's Eyesight By Properly Treating Detached Retina

Thanks to a man originally from Agawam, a nine year-old Rhode Island youngster can see fine once again.

Last summer, optometrist Paul Zerbinopoulos (who graduated from Agawam High School in 1980) discovered that a boy named Brett Connell had a detached retina—a problem that affects only one in 15,000 American adults and even fewer children. And, it was a detached retina that could have stolen the sight of Brett's right eye.
Brett's parents would not have taken their son for an eye exam if it were not for a program called VISION USA. Through VISION USA, optometrists throughout the country offer free eye exams to families that do not have health insurance

When the Connell family heard about VISION USA, they took advantage of it by bringing Brett's older sister, Aimee, to Dr. Zerbinopoulos's Wakefield, Rhode Island office. The doctor suggested that all three of the Connell children come for an examination.

Dr. Zerbinopoulos's exams include fully dilating his patient's pupils. Because the exam is so thorough, he was able to detect the problem in Brett's eye, despite the fact that Breett had not experienced any symptoms to indicate there was a problem.

"If he (Dr. Zerbinopoulos) had not dilated Brett's eye, he never would have found the problem," said Brett's mother, Lynda. She added, said Brett's mother, Lynda. She added, "This was the first time Dr. Zerbinopoulos found the problem in someone so young. It's something that usually strikes the elderly."

Duncan Connell, Brett's father, also appreciated the efforts of both Dr. Zerbinopoulos and Dr. Harold Woodcome (who performed the actual surgery on Brett's detached retina last July), and stated, "I credit the whole thing to Dr. Zerbinopoulos for dilating the eye." The son of William and Margaret Zerbinopoulos of 57 Harding Street, Agawam, Dr. Zerbinopoulos attended Framingham State College following his graduation from Agawam High School. After completing the remainder of his studies at the New England College of Optometry in Boston, he set up his practice in Rhode Island and presently has offices in Wakefield and North Kingstown (the town in which he resides).

In regard to Brett Connell's case, Dr. Zerbinopoulos remarked that the boy had lost about 25 percent of his peripheral vision because of the detachment near the edge of the retina. If the problem had not been detected, it would have worked its way toward the center of Brett's right eye.

Brett's case, continued the optometrist, was "extremely rare" because there was no trauma to the eye, which is typical of retina detachment (heridity, however, can sometimes contribute to a problem like this).

Dr. Zerbinopoulos said children's eyes should be examined before they start kindergarten; because the eye nerve does not mature until about the age of six, problems are much easier to treat if they're detected at an early age.

Interestingly enough, the Connell family's ex-perience attracted the interest of the producers of NBC's Today show. On January 31st, 1994, Brett and his mom appeared on the early-morning program for about five minutes and spoke about their experience with anchorwoman Katie Couric.

As a result of Brett's fortuitous visit to Dr. Zerbinopoulos via the VISION USA program, the Connells were more than pleased that their story drew national attention and hope that other families can benefit from Brett's good fortune.

by Louis Pisano

Look What The Cat DIDN'T Drag In!!!

From the sixties emerged innovative music; from the seventies emerged many classic musicians; the eighties highlighted the careers of these classic artists; and the nineties ... well, the nineties are sure to go down in history as the worst decade in music.

Below are some music video suggestions for those still interested in music as a classy escapist form of art.

* Def Leppard - Visualize

Director: Phil Tuckett (including the work of many other directors for the band). 1993. Not rated. 1 hour and 30 minutes. Def Leppard are: Joseph Elliott (lead vocals), Philip Collen (guitar), Vivian Campbell (guitar), Richard Savage (bass guitar), and Richard Allen (drums).

Someone opts to read a book for enjoyment, enlightenment, and escapism. Someone opts to own a beautiful painting for enjoyment, enlightenment, and escapism. Someone chooses to watch a movie for enjoyment, enlightenment, and escapism.

It only makes logical sense that someone would listen to a particular band for these same reasons. Somehow, however, the music industry in the nineties decided to throw this wholesome approach to the arts out the window. With such repugnant bands as Pearl Jam, Nirvana, Smashing Pumpkins, Guns & Roses, Cowboy Junkies, and an endless list of others churning out songs about suicide, funerals, violence, and other such musical themes expected from such low-class individuals, there does exist a few people who remember what music should be.

This newly released video highlights the extraordinary career of Def Leppard, a band that has withstood great triumphs as well as great hardships together. Constantly the subject of rave reviews from the nation's most reputable critics, this video-if nothing else-will clearly illustrate

The band does not thoroughly demean women as objects of pleasure; does not write lyrics about a boy shooting himself in the head; does not flash images of hearses and caskets in every video they make. What these British rockers do is sing about such topics as love, rock music legends, respect for women, and the destructive power of substance abuse.

Okay, folks, relax ... I know you are shocked that such a respectable group of people exists amongst the aforementioned array of grungy, classless, and talentless individuals; but, it gets

Most bands consist of very averagely talented musicians with one who is extraordinary. Def Leppard, in the meantime, is constantly commended for such things as their superb harmonizing vocals, their unique and awesome individual talent, their versatility, their comradery and resulting determination, and their high admiration for their fans.

Visualize expertly pictorializes these attributes and more. You may be shocked to see that these boys can form a full and intelligible sentence. So while you can listen to W. Axl Rose of Guns & Roses sing about his desire to "watch you bleed" (referring, of course, to a woman entering his jungle!), or to Pearl Jam's Eddie Vedder sing about a boy named Jeremy who commits suicide in front of his classmates, you could choose to listen to Def Leppard sing about how substance abuse can destroy your life in the song "White Lightning," or how a man should never have sex without emotion in their harmonic "Make Love Like A Man.

I agree completely with the large amount of critics that applaud this band for their true concern for the well-being of their fans and the oncerespected industry that birthed them.

Watch Visualize and see the results of their determination in the face of tragic adversity (the death of long-time guitarist Stephen Clark and the loss of drummer Rick Allen's left arm); their broad range of music from the moving ballad to the adrenalizing rock anthem; their landmark stage shows, their talents, and socially responsible beliefs and lyrics; and most of all, their class that will continue to propel them to the top of the in-

After all, isn't that the primal foundation behind the art of music? 4 STARS. (15 years and up.)

* Imagine: John Lennon

Director: Andrew Solt. 1988. Rated R. 1 hour and 43 minutes. Featuring: John Lennon, Yoko Ono, George Harrison, Paul McCartney, Ringo Star, Julian Lennon, and Sean Lennon.

This video almost perfectly documents the career of songwriter John Lennon. Through the utilization of rare home video, television interviews, famous footage, and modern-day interviews placed in accurate, chronological order, Lennon is observed as everything he was ... for better or for worse.

The film is definitely a must for any Beatles fan as well as anyone who is interested in the growth process of a musician. The film documents events from the craze over "The Fab Four" in the mid-sixties to the artist's premature demise in

The film helps in dispeling many of the rumors that infamously surrounded the Beatles. This is of special interest to those who lived during the era.

There will be no denying that Lennon was quite odd. On the same token, there will be no denying that he was a good person. It is stated in the film that Lennon always felt responsible for fans' actions because of his music; this is a true musician, one that goes way beyond the ability to strum a guitar or write a song.

Imagine could even serve as a memento of sorts. While watching, some will remember the era and become reminiscent. Such events as the Beatles' break-up and John and Yoko's bed protest are sure to evoke memories of another time.

In closing, unless you absolutely hate the music of the Beatles or of Lennon, you will enjoy Imagine. I am not, by any means, a big fan of either, but I did enjoy the film. Imagine that. 31/2 STARS. (18 years and up.)

Surprise! Card & Gift Offers A Variety Of Unique Gift Items

Cards & Gifts Featuring Top Dutch Nature Artist

Nature lovers will find fresh inspiration from a new line of greeting cards and specialty products featuring Dutch artist Marjolein Bastin. The Hallmark Marjolein Bastin line includes cards, stationery and gift wrap, and is now available at Surprise! Card and Gift, a Hallmark Gold Crown store located in the Southgate Shopping Plaza, Suffield Street, Agawam (next to Big Y).

Bastin is renowned as the most important nature artist in the Netherlands today. In the grand tradition of Dutch nature painting, she captures her passion for everything that grows in lifelike drawings. Her line of Hallmark products reflects the small forest creatures, wildflowers, birds, insects, and wildlife that surround her woodland home in Holland, according to Robert McElligott, owner of Surprise! Card and Gift. Envelopes also feature Bastin's intricate designs for an exquisite look.

Bastin's work is amazingly detailed. Its finelined beauty, soft colors, and realism will appeal both to gardening lovers and nature enthusiasts as well as to lovers of art, according to McElligott.

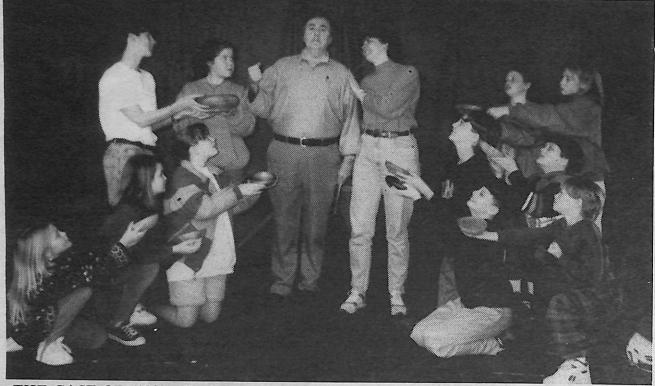

Europeans have enjoyed Bastin's enchanted illustrations for years. Her drawings appear in the weekly magazine Libelle, and she writes and illustrates children's books featuring a popular Marjolein creation, Vera the Mouse. Her nature-themed artwork has been featured on a limited line of self-expression products offered in Europe by Spanjersberg, a Dutch greeting card company owned by Hallmark cards.

Surprise! Card and Gift offers the complete Hallmark Marjolein Bastin line, including more than 70 greeting cards and everyday specialty products featuring Bastin's artwork, launching Bastin's art in the United States.

The recordable cards contain a micro recording device with a tiny switch for recording. If you don't like the way the message sounds, simply record over the first message.

What people like is the fact that the recording can be played over and over, McElligott says. And the element of surprise always enhances a card or gift.

Robinson Students Receive Tour Of Ancient Greece

by Kathy Cassanelli

A native of Greece, Town Council Vice-President George Bitzas recently visited Robinson Park School to present an overview of Greek culture that spanned 6,000 years to the students in Barbara Regish's fourth grade class.

Originally planned as a 30 minute slide show and discussion of ancient and modern Greek culture, Bitzas' presentation expanded into a discussion lasting over an hour as the children's interest in the subject became apparent through their attention and insightful questions. Time ran out for Bitzas and the students as school dismissal time approached.

Questions Could Have Gone On And On

"He's great with the kids. He really captured their attention for over an hour and that's unusual for fourth graders," Mrs. Regish said. "He could have gone on and on and I don't think their questions would have stopped."

Blending elements of mythology and history with his own memories of growing up in Greece (and slides of family vacations there), Bitzas gave the children an overview of the contributions of Greek culture to western civilization.

Bitzas showed slides of the architectural masterpieces of the ancient Greeks as well as slides of the picturesque beauty of the towns of the Greek Islands.

Capitolizing on the current interest in the Olympic Games, Bitzas explained the history of the games, beginning with their origin in Ancient Greece. Originating in 776 BC, the ancient games were held every four years until 339 BC, capturing the attention of the entire population of the Greek empire as warring city-states declared a truce for the duration of the games.

Showing slides of the ancient Olympic stadia, Bitzas explained that while winning was important, it was considered an honor just to compete in the games. While the games draw growds of up in the games. While the games drew crowds of up to 100,000 spectators, the stadia could not accommodate so many people. It was an honor merely to watch the athletes march into the com-

The modern Olympic Games resumed in 1896 through the efforts of the Greek government, Bitzas said. The five rings of the Olympic symbol represent the five continents.

Using slides of the ruins of the ancient Acropolis at Athens, Bitzas introduced the children to the mythology created by the ancient Greeks to explain the natural world.

In addition to slides taken of the wonders of the ancient world. Bitzas showed slides of the Meteora monasteries built atop gigantic stalagmites in central Greece. Originally built in the 14th century, the monasteries were accessible only through baskets hauled up and down the cliffs by ropes.

Today, the monasteries can be reached by climbing the steps carved into the rock. Five of the monasteries are still occupied and can be visited greenery of the American countryside. by tourists. "You have to dress very respectfully if seemed like a paradise to me," Bitzas said.

you want to visit," Bitzas said. "Men must wear long sleeves and pants, no shorts. And the women must wear dresses.

Marble Plentiful And Inexpensive As Bitzas showed slides of modern Greek cities and towns, he told the children almost nothing is built of wood in the entire country. Because Greece is a rocky, mountainous country without forests, all buildings are built of stone or marble. Bitzas said it is not uncommon for homes to be built with marble floors as marble is so plentiful and inexpensive.

Bitzas told the children he emigrated to the United States after completing his military service in the Greek army. Bitzas said he was most impressed by the difference between the grey mountainous landscape of his native land and the lush

Phelps Visited By Out Of This World Science Exhibit

by Kathy Cassanelli News Editor

Some people thought it looked like a giant silver mushroom had grown overnight in the gym at Phelps School and others insisted it looked like a giant Jiffy-pop popcorn pan ready to burst open.

Robert Shea's fourth graders termed it,
"Awesome!" as they filed into the gym for their first look at a portable planetarium.

Robyn Symonds of the Springfield Science

Museum brought Starlab to Phelps for three days of exploring the universe with all the students at the school

The silver, dome-shaped balloon takes about 45 minutes to set up. A standard window fan blows air into the structure to inflate it and to maintain its shape at the same time it provides ventilation inside the planetarium.

Ms. Symonds gave the students a brief introduction into astronomy and a review of basic information on the relationship between the sun and the earth. Clearly pleased that his students were able to supply the correct answers to the questions Ms. Symonds posed, Shea remarked, "We talked about this in September."

After crawling through the igloo-like tunnel leading into Starlab, the students were seated on the floor around the heart of the planetarium, the star projector.

Air Pressure Keeps Starlab Arched Ms. Symonds explained that air pressure keeps Starlab arched overhead rather like a giant balloon. As the light slowly faded, the children watched for the first stars to come out. Gradually, more stars began to appear as Ms. Symonds set the star projector to produce the same night sky we see at 8:00 p.m. at this time of the year.

Before trying to find the constellations, Ms. Symonds showed the children how to orient themselves to find the northern portion of the sky where they will find Polaris, the North Star. Once Polaris was found, Ms. Symonds traced out the Big Dipper and from there pointed out how easy it was to find the Little Dipper.

Moving across to the southern sky, Ms.

Symonds told the children to look for three bright stars in a row to find her favorite constellation, Orion. Starting with the three stars of Orion's belt,

There will be an informative meeting for all parents whose daughters are interested in trying out for the Agawam Youth Cheerleaders' 1994 fall season. The girls must be in fifth or sixth grade for the Junior Squad, or seventh or eighth grade for the Senior Squad.

The meeting will take place at the Agawam Public Library on Thursday, March 24th, from 7:00 to 9:00 p.m.

This meeting is for PARENTS ONLY. Please do not bring your daughters, as it becomes too crowded and confusing (thank you).

Hope to see you there.

Ms. Symonds traced the outline of the hunter and his sword and shield. As Ms. Symonds explained, the ancient Greeks thought Orion was in constant combat with Taurus the Bull.

"The Sky Is Alive" According to Ms. Symonds, ancient people from all over the world looked to the sky and created myths about the pictures they saw in the stars. "The Greeks thought the sky was alive with people and animals. Today, astronomers believe there may be stars out there with planets that may have life on them. That's why the sky is alive to

Ms. Symonds urged the children to begin looking for the familiar constellations whenever they see the stars and to use their imaginations in finding their own pictures in the night sky.

To a chorus of "awesome" and "cool," Ms.

Symonds ended her presentation by setting the star projector to simulate the changes in the stars' positions as they take their nightly stroll across the heavens.

Starlab came to Phelps through the efforts of parent Susan Dempsey. She secured a grant from the Agawam Cultural Council's program to support interpretive sciences in Massachusetts.

After viewing the Starlab presentation, Mrs. Dempsey expressed her approval for the program. "This is so great! I'm glad we did this," Mrs.

Dempsey said.

Ms. Symonds has been presenting the Starlab Program in area schools for the two years the program has been offered by Springfield Science Museum. Originally an elementary teacher with a background in his logy. Ms. Symonds said "The background in biology, Ms. Symonds said, "The Science Museum trained me in astronomy and I love it. #### "No School In Agawam"

"No School In Agawam."

Now there are four words we've heard a lot this winter. Have you ever wondered: Who makes this decision? How? Why?

The process usually begins in late fall of each school year. A meeting is held with a representative of the DPW, the owner of the bus company, and the associate superintendent of schools. It's sort of a "get ready for winter" meeting at which the procedures for cancelling or delaying school are discussed. Home and business phone numbers are exchanged and updated. Time lines for decision-making are decided, and telephone "chains" are established.

Our next stop is to make contact with several local radio and television stations. They generally respond to us in writing of their offer to announce Agawam's school closings and delays. Each station requires the use of a coded phrase or word when early morning calls from our school department are made. Codes change yearly and are different for each station.

After all of the "get ready" steps are completed, we keep a close daily watch on weather predictions. Our day usually ends with the 11:00 p.m. weather report. If there is any chance of snow or ice overnight, the alarm is set for 4:00 a.m. When morning comes and DOPPLER RADAR

When morning comes and DOPPLER RADAR was right, plans and decisions must be made fairly quickly. My first contact is with the DPW to get an update on road conditions. We rely heavily on advice from the DPW and appreciate their efforts. Remember that it is still only 4:00 to 4:30 a.m. and we are trying to make a decision based on

Remember that it is still only 4:00 to 4:30 a.m. and we are trying to make a decision based on what the road conditions will be by 7:00 o'clock, which is the start of the high school bus runs. If there is a foot of snow or an inch of ice on the roads, the decision is an easy one—CANCEL. It's when snow is falling lightly but a THREAT of heavy accumulations lingers ... this is when decisions become tough.

The superintendent and associate discuss the situation. By this time, Mr. Ryder has already spoken with several area superintendents to get a feel of what's happening in other towns and who's doing what. It's now around 5:00 or 5:15 a.m.; the decision is made and the phone calls begin to radio and TV stations, the police department, and bus companies.

A number of years ago, Agawam introduced the "one hour delay." This procedure is used when it is felt that road and weather conditions will improve. In effect, we are buying time (one hour) and still have the ability to cancel if conditions do not improve.

If there is a delay, kindergarten and early childhood classes are automatically cancelled. This method has become quite popular in our region and gives us a good option.

While our decisions are not always agreed with, please be assured that your child's safety is our major concern.

Assessment Test For Grades 4, 8, & 10

Beginning next week, grades 4, 8, and 10 will be taking the Massachusetts Educational Assessment test. The testing program has been mandated by the Education Reform Act and will occur annually. The assessment covers reading, mathematics, science, social studies, and writing. Writing is assessed through responses to open-ended questions in the content areas.

On the assessment, each student answers approximately 15 to 20 multiple choice questions and at least one open-ended question in each of the subject areas. Some open-ended responses are evaluated for writing skills in addition to content.

The Massachusetts Education Assessment Program (MEAP) promotes improved curriculum and instructions by asking questions that go beyond the simple recall of facts. Through the use of open-ended questions, students must demonstrate higher order skills such as problem solving, analysis, and evaluation. In addition, the results of the MEAP can be used to evaluate program effectiveness, to design performance profiles of the student body, and to articulate achievement goals.

The MEAP promotes accountability through the public reporting of school and district performance. The Department of Education works closely with schools and districts to ensure the appropriate use of these results.

Future assessments results will promote accountability not only through the public reporting of the students' performance, but also by assessing whether students have achieved standards required for graduation and by serving as one of the factors in evaluating schools and school districts.

Heritage Hall Offers Internships To AHS

Aspiring healthcare professionals from Agawam High School will get a glimpse of their future in a new credited internship offered at Heritage Hall Nursing and Rehabilitation Center, 61 Copper Street. The half year course will provide 61 Cooper Street. The half-year course will provide hands-on, practical knowledge to students interested in a career in any health-related field.

The idea of offering a credited internship was first introduced by Brenda Marsian, Director of Volunteer Services for Heritage Hall, located just down the street from the high school.

Heritage, which is owned and managed by Genesis Health Ventures, the sixth largest geriatric healthcare company in the country, "is a rich resource for students interested in pursuing careers in healthcare," commented Marsian, who contacted high school guidance counselor Alan Cohen about developing the course.

"Fortunately, Mr. Cohen, along with Principal Russell Furtado, have already implemented career workshops for students to explore possible job opportunities. Heritage fit perfectly into the high school's plans to establish business alliances with local companies," continued Mar-

Instructed by a different Heritage Hall department head each week, students will learn about the various opportunities in healthcare. Students will meet with administrators, physicians, nurses, physical, occupational, and speech therapists, social workers, nutritionists, recreation directors, and physical plant managers.

Once the lecture portion of the course is finished, the class will spend the remainder of the term completing mandatory volunteer hours at Heritage. If a student would like to specialize in a field such as physical therapy, they can work directly with a therapist and assist with exercise programs or observe other rehabilitative assignments. 'The nursing home's objective is to be a resource for students. While learning the ropes of the workforce from the professionals themselves, they can also whet their appetite with some ter-rific community service work." #### Adults Needed As Facilitators To Help Kids Quit Smoking

by Kathy Cassanelli News Editor

The Agawam Public Schools is offering interested adults in the community the opportunity to be trained as facilitators to help teenagers kick the smoking habit.

Adults who work with young people, whether it be in scouting, church groups, sports teams, or other activities, can receive free training to lead the eight sessions of Tobacco-Free Teens. The training is a step-by-step walk through the program's curriculum.

Tobacco-Free Teens is a program of the American Lung Association aimed at helping teens with a desire to quit using tobacco. The program consists of eight sessions extending over four weeks.

Non-smokers or ex-smokers who have some experience in group leadership are eligible to become facilitators.

According to Health Coordinator Connie Hutton, "It is possible for facilitators to do a team effort in leading the sessions."

In the training sessions, the facilitators will learn to develop strategies for implementing the program and recruiting teens, identify the various levels of tobacco cessation, apply systemic behavior changes with adolescents, and incorporate peer leaders in the quitting process.

Tobacco-Free Teens seeks to help young people quit using tobacco before it becomes a long term addiction. According to the American Lung Association, 50 percent of adult smokers started smoking before age 14 and 90 percent started by age 19. The average age of a new smoker in Massachusetts is 10 years.

The facilitator training will be held at AHS, on Wednesday, March 30th and Thursday, March 31st from 2:30 to 5:30 p.m.

If you would like to assist teens in making smoking history, contact Connie Hutton, AHS health coordinator, at 789-1400, extension 420 (before March 25th).

Resolving Conflicts New Pilot Program At Middle School

by Kathy Cassanelli News Editor

In the spring, sixth graders at Agawam Middle School will participate in a pilot program designed to teach students how to resolve conflicts before tensions can erupt into violence.

The Springfield-based Center For Human Development will provide training in conflict management and violence prevention to all guidance counselors, Home School Adjustment counselors, and school psychologists, who will present the program to the sixth graders.

Health Coordinator Connie Hutton said the school system will benefit from training the counselors rather than teachers because they will be able to use the skills learned throughout the system. "We thought it was a good idea to train people from the earliest grades through high school," Mrs. Hutton said.

Funded by a grant from the state's Health Protection Fund, the program will train the counselors to verbally de-escalate conflict and aggression and learn strategies to maintain safety for themselves as well as students in conflict

The training will include mediation techniques, negotiation skills, and enhanced communication

The Lifeskills Violence Prevention Curriculum aims to teach students anger management, empathy building, communication skills, and win/win negotiation strategies.

The program will provide instruction in technique and strategies and the opportunity for students to gain experience in using them through classroom work and take home exercises to involve the students' families.

WMass Safe Kids Coalition Supports New Bicycle Helmet Law In Effect

Each year, over 1,200 people die and thousands more are seriously injured throughout the country in bicycle accidents because they did not wear

Members of the Western Massachusetts Safe Kids Coalition, based at Baystate Medical Center Children's Hospital, hope that the new Massachusetts Helmet Law (which went into effect March 8th, 1994) will help save lives.

"Wearing a bicycle helmet can make a drastic difference in your safety. Helmets have been shown to reduce the risk of head injury by 85% and the risk of brain injury by 90%," said Shirley LaRoche, R.N., coordinator of the Western Massachusetts Safe Kids Coalition.

Despite these facts, LaRoche noted, it's estimated that less than 10% of all bicyclists and less than 5% of all children—wear helmets. She added than one in seven children suffers head injuries in bike-related accidents, and 75% of all cyclists' deaths involve head injuries.

The Massachusetts Bicycle Helmet Law states that "any person 12 years of age or younger operating a bicycle or being carried as a passenger on a bicycle on a public way, bike path, or any other public right-of-way must wear an ap-

According to the new law, helmets must meet safety standards set by ANSI or SNELL, two organizations that publish standards for bicycle helmets in the United States. In addition, the helmets must fit will and be secured by straps when the bicycle is being operated.

For more information about helmets and bicycle safety, call the Western Massachusetts Safe Kids Coalition based at Baystate Medical Center Children's Hospital at 784-5434

AHS REACH STATE FINALS BY BLITZING HOLY NAME Saturday Date At Centrum For Title

by Bob Johnson Advertisr News Sports Editor

Worcester Trip I was a tremendous success. And the Brownies are looking forward to going back this Saturday night (March 19th) vs. perennial state girls' power Haverill in a 5:45 p.m. tip-off for all the marbles.

The Agawam High girls' basketball team advanced to the State Division I Finals and used the S.S. Conte to sink the ship that had been sailing under the name of Holy Name High School.

The Brownies clocked the Napoleons, 58-40 in a wire to wire job that had all the critics raving at the Worcester Centrum Tuesday night.

Brownies' Frontline Ruled

The S.S. Conte reference means that Coach had Cente put caddles on his two talented front

Lou Conte put saddles on his two talented frontcourt performers, Kristen Schmaelzle and Cyndi Stone, and rode them from the opening tap to the Stone had a game-high 26 points and Schmaelzle ruled the backboads and bashed her way to 24 of her own. The precision with which the Brownies operated on Tuesday night may never again be duplicated! Stone scored the first hoop of the night by accepting a nice feed from Alison Jean (both are seniors).

Schmaelzle put back her own miss to double the margin and Stone got the Worcester-based school to call timeout when she hit the bottom of the hoop with a 17-foot turnaround shot.

From 6-0 it was quickly 10-0 as Schmaelzle rebounded home a Stone miss and then Stone got her third bucket by snaring a Dina DeMarco fastball in the lane.

Meanwhile, Amy O'Brien (the 25 point per game scorer for the Naps) was already saddled with two personal fouls. Julie Paine finally got them on the board with a left corner shot. But Schmaelzle more than made up for that one as she scored off an inbounds pass to make it 12-2. She then set up shop to make the play of the game.

Agawam got the rock back and headed upcourt. A Brownie got the ball up on the glass and Schmaelzle went for it. She secured it three different times and finally threw it back into the hole and got fouled. O'Brien answered that with her first response as she pulled up and fired home a three to cut it to 18-5.

Don't Let Them Come Back The Agawam kids had just witnessed a sensational comeback by Bartlett High in the Division II game. That club came back from 53-34 and won the game 75-69. So, Conte had a built-in reason to keep them playing hard. And the locals got better and better as the night went along.

With 9:09 left to play in the first half, Stone and Schmaelzle had already collected 10 points each. Kristen would add six more in the half and AHS left the floor with a 30-19 lead.

O'Brien would score eight and teammate

Brooke Renkens got free for nine in the comeback attempt, but they were doing it all from the out-

Conte's defensive scheme was also magnificient. Schmaelzle played O'Brien man-to-man and forced her to the left hand. Now that really didn't hurt the six foot junior because she is talented enough to pass the ball wonderfully with her left hand (off the dribble).

But Schmaelzle limited O'Brien's looks at the rim. And when she did penetrate, Stone stepped to the middle and out her off at the page It was a to the middle and cut her off at the pass. It was a gorgeous help defense executed to a "T"

WMASS TITLE BELONGS TO AHS

by Bob Johnson Advertiser News Sports Editor

Cyndi Stone is used to getting hit when she is in her basketball uniform. The tallest member of the Agawam High School girls' basketball team is a marked lady every time she takes the court.

But she may have never been hit as hard as she was at about 7:30 last Saturday night at center court at the Springfield Civic Center. She was bearhugged and then knocked to the floor by about nine other kids. And she couldn't have been

She was being congratulated along with the rest of her AHS teammates after the team had just climaxed an outstanding Western Mass. season by capturing the Western Mass. title for the first time in four seasons.

Stone's 21 points and 13 rebounds, along with plenty of help from her friends, was enough to turn back the top seeded Northampton High Blue Devils by a 43-35 margin. Northampton (fast becoming a Lakers-Celtics type rivalry) had eliminated the Brownies in each of the last two Agawam had split the season series between the two clubs, but had the bitter taste of a 17 point loss on the road in February with which to contend as it entered the ballgame.

But eight-year Coach Lou Conte had a plan and his team executed it to a "T" as they played hard and strong all day long. The defense was superb, the teamwork was Agawam-like, and the result was as sweet as it could be for the Brownies who now go to Worcester Centrum (Tuesday night-story this edition) to face the Holy Name

High team that captured the Central Mass. title.
Stone has spent a large part of the season with little difficulty, but it is always a concern that she stay healthy and out of foul trouble. Conte surely noticed that she picked up that first foul with just 28 seconds expired on the first half clock. That never became a factor.

Shauna Naciewicz bent her knees nicely and got a corner set shot to drop to open the scoring. Junior Kristen Schmaelzle showed some early jitters by fanning on her first two free throws, but she recovered to drop one in from the right elbow for a 4-0 lead and Stone upped that to 6-0 by tapping in her own miss. Conte's crew knew it wasn't going to be a shutout, although things continued to go well for a while. Liz Moulton would hit a layup and a three to get Northampton rolling, Stone and Naciewicz hit wide open outside shots to counter as Agawam led 10-5 as the game started to get in-

The Brownies got that lead to 15-7 as Stone made one of those dinosaurs known as a conventional three point play and then she mopped up a beautiful "BC" formation by draining a teardropper from 12 feet.

Scariest Opponent In Western Mass.
That's when the scariest opponent in Western Mass. started to rev up her motor. Point guard Betsy Gonski had just made a coast-to-coast layup for 'Hamp's sixth and seventh points, but now she was in a groove.

First, she flew one home from three point land. She then fed Addie Stiles for a six footer to trim the lead to 15-12. Her next two acts were a slash to the goal and then a 15 foot pullup that had the Blue Devils on top and Conte signalling for a timeout with 5:27 to play. 'Hamp had the lead (16-15) and all the momentum.

But Agawam had Cyndi Stone and Kristen Schmaelzle. And these kids have shown time and again that they want the rock in the tight situations. It would be Schmaelzle who would get the lead back as she stepped into the lane for one hoop and then cut backdoor for another to put Agawam back ahead 19-16.

Senior Alison Jean takes about three shots a week on this club, but she took a big one late in the half as she swished one from 13 feet to put Agawam up five. Stiles closed the first half by scoring with a pair of free throws and Agawam went to rest at intermission with a 21-18 lead went to rest at intermission with a 21-18 lead.

The second half could not have started any worse for the Brownies. Stiles worked hard for a hoop that might have got her going (she is their leading scorer) and DeMarco picked up her fourth foul with 12:41 to play. Then, big Tara Kelly finished some furious action under the 'Hamp offensive basket (they were beginning to rebound with a vengeance) and Kelly's flat-footed floater that somehow eluded Stone's big hands fell through for a sloppy hoop. Northampton would do better than the Brownies in a sloppy game. Stiles followed that with another rebound basket and the Blue Devils had claimed the lead 24-23.

DeMarco Wins The Game
Conte had no choice but to bring DeMarco back and take his chances that she could last. Some chance! DeMarco went out and won the ballgame for the Brownies. When she was sitting, her linescore stood at zero points. When she returned, she looked for her offense and she ran the point beautifully.

She hit two free throws at 8:18 to give Agawam the lead back, this time for good. Stone sent Stiles to the bench with her fourth foul and Cyndi hit a free throw to put the Brownies up by two. DeMarco pulled up from 17 feet and touched nothing but cords to make it 28-24. She then sank a shot from the left corner off an inbounds pass for a six point lead.

Gonski looked for her offense again and found three points on a drive to the hoop and a later free throw, but Stone would hit two free throws and DeMarco added one too to keep the lead at six (33-27) as the clock started to wind down.

Stone continued to roll with a super baseline drive (3:18) and a baseline jumper (2:11) to keep the pressure on the comebacking Devils. DeMarco made it nine points in seven minutes when she drained a pair of free throws at 1:57 to put the Brownies ahead 39-32.

Northampton scored the next three as Kelly and Gonski got them some points with the clock stopped (free throws). But Katie LaBreck sealed it with a free throw at 24 seconds that put Agawam up five. LaBreck missed the second one and Stone eased inside to put it back where it belonged as it was time to sing the ol' Agawam fight song and time to knock Stone off her feet.

Northampton couldn't do it!

THE AGAWAM HIGH GIRLS' basketball program had plenty to celebrate at its Annual Banquet last Sunday night - a Western Mass. Renkens got a layup to open the second stanza and Stone picked up her third personal foul in rebounding action with 15:28 remaining.

With big-game tension being shown for the moment, Schmaelzle responded with a cool banker in the lane and that ignited a 7-0 run for the Brownies.

The locals' backcourt was handled with ease by DeMarco and Katie LeBreck. They kept on whistling the ball to the middle and the destruction continued.

DeMarco's three pointer with one second remaining on the 30-second clock was the final dagger at 6:43 (AHS led, 48-32).

The Naps (20-3) showed why they were in the big game by getting a three from Caitlin Foley and O'Brien's pullup jumper on the left side. This was followed by a corner swish from Renken and it was down under 10 at 48-39. When Stone missed two free throws, the Naps came down looking to trim it to seven.

10-1 Run Put It Away

It didn't happen as the Brownies came away with a loose ball and ended the game for good with a 10-1 run.

Conte had his way all the way in this one. He was even able to bring his troops out one by one in Garbage Time so they could each receive a salute from the large Agawam travelling contingent

The coup de gras came when seldom used sophomore Sue Defilipi was able to hit a runner in the lane in the game's final 10 seconds to complete the scoring.

Everything went right in Worcester I. You won't want to miss the sequel vs. Haverill High in the school's search for the state championship.

Brownies Outlast Pittsfield's 3-Point Barrage

by Bob Johnson Advertiser News Sports Editor

If you wanted to play pool in Pittsfield last Wednesday night, March 9th, you wouldn't have had enough balls to fill up the rack.

All the three balls were missing!

The Pittsfield High Lady Generals took every available three ball with them to Curry Hicks Cage in Amherst, and they used every one of them in an attempt to stop the favored Brownies from Agawam High.

Seriously, the Pittsfield kids hit eight three-pointers (an unprecedented seven of them in the second half), but Coach Lou Conte's Brownies played so well that they were still able to pull away for a 51-45 win that sent them to the Western Mass. Finals (story this edition).

Second Straight Season At The Cage

It was the second straight season that the Brownies played semi-final action at the Cage—and they had dropped last year's game to the Northampton High Blue Devils. It was also a rematch of last year's quarterfinals when the Brownies had pounded the Generals at Clifford P. Kibbe gym in Agawam.

Cyndi Stone, playing out of her mind these playoffs, had an outstanding outing as she posted up and faded away for 28 big points (18 in the critical second half).

Pittsfield played a fine ballgame and showcased a couple of talented players, including sophomore Kristy Conyers, who would deliver four of those three-pointers (all of which came at critical checkpoints in the ballgame).

Another player that shined for the Pittsfield club was a big, strong center/forward named Angela O'Connor, who was all over the glass at both ends of the building. She kept Pittsfield alive for much of the first half with her efforts. Erin and Stephanie Ladley both connected on shots that would put the third-seeded Generals ahead 10-6 over Agawam in the early going.

But Stone would heave a bullet pass over the top to her frontcourt buddy, Kristin Schmaelzle, for one hoop and then had herself on the receiving end of gorgeous dishes from Katie LaBreck and Alison Jean to put Agawam ahead 12-10. Next, Stone would go to the boards herself to rebound home a LaBreck miss as the Brownies were really starting to flex their muscles.

Stephanie Ladley answered that run when she converted a lob, but Dina DeMarco (Agawam's point guard) seemingly drove a late, first half dagger when she was all strings from three point land. It would be the only trifecta of the night for the Brownies, but Pittsfield was just getting ready to unveil its Three-Pronged attack. Conyers came right down the floor, pulled up from straightaway out top, and threw one right in the hole to trim the lead to 17-15.

"Whatever You Can Do..."

DeMarco, as if playing "Whatever you can do, I can do better," came up the floor, pulled up at the arc, and then tucked the shoulder and drove for a left side layup. This closed the scoring in the first half with the Agawam kids on top, 19-15.

Pittsfield's rebounding edge went largely unrewarded as it missed many shots close to the basket. Their head coach would lament when he re-emerged from the locker room, "We just can't put the ball in the basket." Deep down, he had to know that the 6'2" Stone standing in the middle on defense was plenty of reason to alter a shot or Agawam got Stone's first contribution of her big second half as she muscled one home to commence the scoring and put the Brownies up by six. But Pittsfield responded with a 9-2 burst fueled by Stephanie Ladley's seven points (including her first three) and the Generals sent Conte to a timeout with 12:30 to play and the Brownies trailing for the first time since 10-6.

Schmaelzle got her number called in the timeout huddle and the prime timer stepped up and hit a nice little shot from the left elbow to put the Brownies back on top.

That's when little Conyers started her little dance again. She spat in the "Eyes of Agawam" as she took two consecutive big league threes and never touched an inch of iron. Two swishers, six points and a five point lead for the Generals. This team was no fluke. They came in at 20-1!

But it would be the coolness of the veteran coach and his crew from Agawam that would steady the ship nicely by feeding Stone and Schmaelzle for seven straight points. The last three came when Stone stood at the stripe and made three of four free throws. Two for a foul inside and two more for a technical on O'Connor.

It was a huge play because it was O'Connor's fourth foul (and the subsequent fifth disqualifying foul on the technical) and she was gone for the Pittsfield showed more guts when Laura Flynn stopped by long enough to launch a three pointer to put it back on top 33-32.

Schmaelzle gave Agawam the lead again as she freed herself down low; Stone hit a free throw; LaBreck came through with a layup off a DeMarco steal and Agawam was back up by four.

Conyers just didn't stop. She nailed another three to bring her club with lone and this pesky unit from the Berkshires just kept on coming!

Stone hit two free throws, but Conyers counterpunched again by slashing all the way up the court and to the goal for a rare layup. It was 39-38

Again Schmaelzle would hit a big basket from the left elbow and then DeMarco showed her passing skills by hitting Stone with a super out-of-bounds lob to the hoop for a five point lead.

Generals Come Back Within Two
But guess what Pittsfield had for an answer? Yup, this time a Stephanie Ladley trifecta and suddenly the Generals were back within two.

Agawam kept on having the answers. Stone drove the stake a little deeper by scoring easily off an inbounds pass. And then the ever-dangerous LaBreck rifled home a 17-footer to put the margin at six (47-41) with just under two minutes to play.

Agawam did the free throw shuffle and made it happen. Conyers (naturally) hit another three. But this time it was desperation and off-balance (heck, it even banked in from way out top). And it was Agawam yelling and screaming wildly at center court when the final horn sounded.

I Like Dreaming 'Bout The Boys Of Summer

by Bob Johnson Advertiser News Sports Editor

Pretty soon guys are going to be slipping while rounding third; calling for sliders down and away; going for the resin bag; looking down for the sign at third; chasing balls that are rolling to the bullpen wall; guessing right when the curve ball is on the way; reaching over the tarpaulin to try to grab a foul ball that is drifting into the stands.

Chargin' in expecting a bunt; arguing with the first base ump on a bang-bang play; ranging into the hole and unleashing strong throws to first; warming up in the bullpen; bringing the lineup card out to home plate; spitting tobacco on the dugout steps; breaking in a new glove; hitting a ball on the sweet spot, only to see it nestle in the third baseman's glove before the hitter can even leave the batter's box.

Watching helplessly as a high flyball falls between three fielders (each of which could have made the play!); covering the plate dutifully after throwing the wild pitch which allows the runner to easily score from third; bellywhooping into second base only to be tagged out; leaning back after the pitcher delivered some "chin music."

Losing a flyball in the sun; banging hit-and-run singles into rightfield; grooving the 3-0 pitch and getting the "automatic" strike; trying to talk the manager out of going to the bullpen; arguing with the home plate ump about balls and strikes; guarding the line in the late innings.

Bringing in the lefty to face the lefty; calling squeeze play; getting hit on the shins by a comebacker and trying not to let anybody know how much it hurts; ripping drives up the power alley and motoring all the way to third while the crowd stands and salutes; walking in from the bullpen to face a major jam.

Trotting in from the outfield to get sunglasses on one of those "peekaboo sky" days; colliding with each other in the outfield; fouling a ball off the thumbs and trying to get the "bees" to stop buzzing; striking out with the bases loaded and one out; looking for the Local and getting the Express; banging into a 6-4-3 double play; taking two and hitting to right.

Bumping their fists as they round the bases after hitting one out of the yard; trying to find the strike zone; booting a routine grounder to second; failing to cover first on a bounder to the first baseman; overthrowing the cutoff man; making sensational catches as they crash off the walls; streaking from first to home on a rolling double into the left field corner.

Charging the mound after being plunked with a pitch (unfortunately); slapping their hands together after getting a solid base hit off a difficult pitcher; throwing a changeup to a power hitter on a 3-2 pitch; hitting back-to-back homers; drawing a bases-loaded walk in extra innings to win a five-hour ballgame.

Signing autographs for the kids in the first two rows prior to the ballgame; getting little loopers to fall in just out of the reach of the hustling infielders; hitting hanging breaking balls over the roof; sliding into home safely just ahead of the

THIS WEEK— Girls' Basketball Agawam vs. Minnechaug

Musings On AHS Winter

by Bob Johnson Advertiser News Sports Editor

Winter's passing will be a blessing to us all. It has given all of us challenges that we were not expecting and were certainly not prepared for in many instances.

Even these potholes that fill every roadway make us shudder with fury as we watch our tires get swallowed up in them. (Incidentally, if you have a choice between hitting a pothole or another vehicle ... choose the pothole, will ya?!)...

But many things occurred at Agawam High over the winter, including that Daily Double Western Mass. Championship called for in these pages six weeks ago. Coach PHIL TOMKIEL (or should I say Hall of Fame Coach Phil Tomkiel?) got his Brownies to win the Western Mass. title for the eighth straight time and this past weekend, Coach LOU CONTE picked off his third Western Mass. crown ('89, '90, '94) with the girls' basketball team at the Civic Center...

Speaking of Hall of Fame—did you know that GERRY SMITH was voted into the Massachusetts Baseball Coaches Hall of Fame this Winter? The 25 year head man of the AHS baseball team was honored for his contributions to the sport over a quarter of a century ... Gerry's son, BOO, is now the president of the Tri-County League. My sidekick at the scorer's table for basketball has been the coach of the two time defending champion Agawam Auto School for the past two seasons ... Uh Alex, I'll take HodgePodge for $400

Just a few thoughts on the Agawam basketball title. A month ago, while the Brownies were getting their butts kicked in Northampton, Athletic Director KATHY MCSWEENEY was yelling and encouraging the kids from the stands. Some kids from 'Hamp started chiding our beloved AD and told her to go sit on the other side. Kathy just smiled and kept on rooting. Later, one of the kids yelled out, "Is Agawam bad in every sport?" I guess so, but maybe he would like to stop by and view the trophy up close and personal. I love to see the TrashTalkers getting their just rewards...

Popular area wrestling referee RICH MULBERRY (who can be seen at every Brownie sport it seems) is celebrating the 20th anniversary as the New York State heavyweight wrestling champion... Coach CYNDI GRIEVE (of field hockey fame-did I say that?) has been named as the new tournament director for the upcoming Western Mass. (Division I, II, III) softball championships (if the snow ever melts)...

The public address guy at the Civic Center made SHAUNA NACIEWICZ sound like Dr. Galakiewicz of the Bud Light commercial fame. He couldn't say that kid's name on a bet. He had a little trouble with KRISTEN SCHMAELZLE's name, too, but he had some wonderful pipes...

Saw CATHY SCAGGS (former soccer, hoop and softball star at AHS) and she is completing her education in the near future at Assumption College in Worcester. She was doing color commentary work with the crew from F & F Productions at the Girls's Finals last Saturday. That kid is the whole package. Always was. It was nice to chat with her again. I also saw Cathy's old teammate, LISA SUFFRITI, a couple of times this winter. The AHS assistant track coach and former basketball forward is doing some TV work with the crew that does some of the Longmeadow games. Maybe we have another Hannah Storm or Gayle Gardener on

So, Agawam got through the winter with two championships (and perhaps another? Conte's girls go in search of the state crown now), and no money left in the snow removal budget—that's OK, there is no more snow coming! Is there?...

For 21 years, the Western Massachusetts Fly Fisherman have produced a Fly Fishermen's Workshop in Ludlow, Massachusetts, at the Polish American Citizen's Club on East Street.

Since the club started to have the workshop, Joe Berkowitz of Feeding Hills has donated his time and expertise at fly tying at the workshop, and he also teaches every year at this time a fly tyer's school for young fly tyers (this school is also sponsored by the Western Massachusetts Fly Fishermen).

For this year's workshop—which will be held on Monday, March 21st, starting at 7:00 p.m.—the headliner will be Lou Tabory with a slide show and commentary on inshore fly fishing. Tabory is a leading proponent of salt water fly fishing in the northeast and a member of the Orvis Salt Water Advisory Team, and he has authored a book titled "Inshore Fly Fishing.

There will be displays by area dealers and manufacturers. Bargains are usually available at this time. A door prize and many fly tying demonstrations will make it an interesting evening. General admission is $5, and children under 12 are free.

In appreciation for the excellent support that Fort Lauderdale authorities have provided for this project, a special fundraiser will be held in conjunction with the shoot to raise funds for the Florida Panther Research Trust Fund.

The three-day tournament is open to the public free of charge. In 1993, over 3,000 spectators attended; this year, 80 teams from around the world are expected to compete. Montana shooter Judy Woolley (the first fulltime professional shooter since Annie Oakley) was recently the recipient of the first Chevy Truck "Shooter of the Year" award. She has won championship honors in virtually all major tournaments in 1993, including top woman in both pistol and long gun events at the Master's.

The trout are almost ready to go. They have been on a lean diet during the severe weather this past winter. I understand now that the traceways are free of ice, a "force feed" program will be adopted to bring up the trout to a healthy par before stocking.

There will be about the same number of trout stocked this spring as last year. However, the weight of the trout will be less.

When Going Outside To Exercise, Please Use Some Common Sense

by Bob Kuzmeski, MEd, LATC

Now that cabin fever has a firm grip on all of us and the snow that was piled up to the window sills is slowly starting to melt, it is time to get out of the house and start exercising again. Cross country skiing, snowshoeing, downhill skiing, even walking and running, are a few of the outdoor activities you can enjoy at this time of year. These activities are a great way to shake off those winter blues that are so prevalent now.

It is also time for those athletes who have upcoming sports and competition seasons just a few weeks away to begin their preseason training. Here are a few tips regarding dressing for cold weather exercise that may be of help to you.

Believe it or not, exercising in cold weather has fewer concerns for the fitness enthusiast than exercising in hot weather. This is true becuase the body produces a large amount of heat from exercise. By dressing appropriately for the weather, the amount of body heat lost to the environment can be controlled by the clothing worn.

This is not to say there are not any dangers associated with cold weather exercise. Exposure of-unprotected extremeties to cold temperatures, or wetness and cold can cause frostbite. Frostbite is freezing of the skin, usually the fingers, toes,

It can cause tissue and circulatory damage that may be permanent. Hypothermia, extremely low core body temperature, is another serious impairment a cold weather sporting enthusiast must keep in mind.

When cold temperatures cause blood to be redirected from the extremities and the head to the vital organs, the part of the brain controlling body temperature stops functioning properly. The signs of hypothermia are an absence of shivering, low body temperature, sleepiness, and slurred

To prevent injuries related to cold weather from occurring, dressing effectively for whatever winter time activity you pursue is of primary concern. The goal is to contain the heat produced by the body

This is accomplished by what is worn and how it is worn. The what to wear part of the puzzle offers many options. The layer of clothing next to the skin is very important. The material needs to absorb the sweat and then "wick" it away to prevent you from getting cold.

The best material with these properties is polypropylene or olefin, but is rather expensive. Wool also has these properties, but can be very itchy next to the skin. Cotton is a poor insulator, because it absorbs moisture but does not remove it from the skin. A reasonable compromise would be a cotton tee shirt under a wool sweater, and then an outer layer.

Outerwear has improved tremendously in the past few years in regards to keeping you warm and dry, but at the same time, being not too heavy or constricting to wear. Goretex is the best material available to meet these needs.

This type of outerwear is expensive, but if you plan on using the garment often, it's comfort and durability can justify the cost.

Nylon, treated with a waterproofing substance, is almost as good as Goretex. It is wind resistant, will keep you warm and is relatively inexpensive. If at all possible, don't use cotton blend outer garments. This type of apparel gets wet easily and does not keep the wind and cold air away from the Dressing in layers of clothing is the most effective way to deal with the cold. By dressing in layers, two important goals are achieved.

First, the air trapped between the layers will keep you warm. Second, as your body creates more heat from the activity, you can make adjustments in the number of layers of clothes that you need likewilly two to four layers of clothes. you need. Usually, two to four layers of clothes are enough.

Finally, hats and mittens or gloves are a must for cold weather exercise. A hat will keep body heat in and keep the whole body warm. Without a hat, up to 40 percent of your body heat will be lost through the head.

The reason for this is abundant blood flow to the brain. Mittens or gloves also prevent heat loss, keep the hands comfortable, and prevent frostbite. Mittens are warmer than gloves, because there is only two compartments to warm, rather than five, but wearing one or the other is a matter of personal preference.

Best of luck on your exercise program, whether your goal is general fitness, preseason training for the upcoming spring sports season, or training for the upcoming roadracing, triathalon or bicycling seasons.

If you have any questions to ask Bob about fitness training or injury prevention, please feel free to drop him a line. Questions can be mailed directly to him c/o Rehab Associates and Sports Medicine Center, 201 Park Avenue, West Springfield, MA 01089

Questions submitted will be answered in the column. If a confidential answer if preferred, please be sure to include a self-addressed stamped envelope.

Vermont Rabies Increase

The number of rabies cases in Vermont has risen sharply since last year. Twenty-four cases of rabies have been confirmed so far this year, compared with three this time last year.

Of this year's confirmed cases, 22 foxes, a cow, and a dog were found to be infected. "It looks like we are dealing strictly with the fox rabies strain at this point," said Robert Johnson, the state veterinarian.

Johnson attributed the increase in cases of rables in part to this season's hard winter with deep snow, which forced foxes to enlarge their range of territory.

The rabies situation in Vermont could be complicated by the migration of a strain of rabiesinfected raccoons that has migrated from the southern states.

TEAM MEMBERS OF THE BAY WEST BLUE DEVILS, District 6 Hockey Champions.

Bay West Blue Devils District 6 Champions

The Bay West Blue Devils had a productive school vacation week, picking up four wins and the Mini Mite District 6 championship.

They started out the week on Saturday, February 19th, with a regular season game against Westfield. Once again Bay West got out to a slow start, and Westfield jumped out to a quick 1-0 lead just 0:59 into the game. The Blue Devils came out smoking in the second period and scored three times to go ahead 3-1.

Anthony DiMaio led the charge, scoring two goals just 33 seconds apart. His first goal was assisted by Nick DiMaio and Zack Lapponese, and Nick Petrangelo picked up the assist on the second. Zack Lapponese rounded out the scoring for Bay West, unassisted. The Bay West defensive corps of Tommy Burke, Roger Coughlin, Nick Petrangelo, and Dennis Contrada were outstanding, and Jeremy Rogalski picked up the win with some solid goaltending.

After receiving a first-round bye in the District 6 playoffs, the Blue Devils had to face Tri-City in the semi-finals. They had beaten Tri-City three times previously, but each win was tougher than the

After a scoreless first period, Tri-City took a 1-0 lead with one minute left in the second period. Not a team to give up, Bay West answered the challenge in the third period. Sean Astle and Boger Coughlia, with some pice work on the Roger Coughlin, with some nice work on the boards, freed up the puck for Joey Meagher, who put a hard wrist shot into the lower corner to tie the game at 1-1.

Things started to look bad for Bay West when Astle picked up a tripping penalty with three minutes left in the game. They did a good job defensively, but Tri-City went on the breakaway just as the penalty was ending. Sean Astle, however, came out of the box and was able to knock the puck away.

Anthony DiMaio continued his heroics, scoring the game-winner with 1:02 left in the game. Bay West held on for the 2-1 win and a trip to the finals. Jeremy Rogalski was his steady self in goal, picking up the win.

Bay West had to face Westfield in the finals, which was by far the most exciting game of the season as well as the best played. Both teams traded first period goals, with Roger Coughlin scoring for the Blue Devils, unassisted.

Westfield put continual pressure on the net, and Jeremy Rogalski had his toughest test of the season. He made several outstanding saves, keeping his team in the game. Joey Meagher put Bay West up 2-1 at 2:11 into the second period on an unassisted goal, and that's how the second period ended.

Zack Lapponese game them an insurance goal at 6:39 of the third period, assisted by Nick and Anthony DiMaio. Westfield closed the gap to 3-2 but just couldn't come back. Star of the game went to Jeremy Rogalski, who played his best game of the season in goal.

Also playing well were defensemen Burke, Contrada, Petrangelo, and Coughlin, while forwards Tony Boido, Mat Footit, Chris Lomma, and Chad Miller put the pressure on Westfield. Congratulations, team!!

On Saturday, February 26th, the team faced WTM in a regular season game. The team showed no letdown after their exciting game Thursday, and contact their fine play up and down the ice, gaining a 2-0 win.

Jeremy Rogalski continued his great play in goal, posting his fourth win of the week and his second shutout of the season. After a scoreless first period, Nick DiMaio notched his first goal of the season at 7:02 of the second period, assisted by Lapponese and Coughlin. Nick Petrangelo finished out the scoring in the third period, stealing the puck in his own zone and beating two defenders before knocking it past the WTM goalie. Their four wins that week boosted their overall record to 14-3-3.

St. Mary's Continues In First Place In Tri-Parish Bowling

In the Monday night Tri-Parish Bowling League, St. Mary (13 wins) continues to hold first place with St. Louis (11½ wins) and St. Anselm (11 wins) attempting to stay close.

St. Mary faced last place Boston College (3 wins) and used the rolling of TERRY CERPOVICZ (288) and Captain RICH SHEEHAN (313) to remain as the league's top dog. Sheehan defeated BC Captain JOHN MLINEK (291). Sheehan is third in Mary's AA at 105 34 while Minek is third in Mary's Men's AA at 105.34 while Mlinek is third in Men's

The two winners for BC were leadoff STELLA BARBIERI (241) and JOHN LONCRINI (266). Stella is in second place in Women's C at 86.27 while Loncrini is fourth in Men's B at 94.38.

Second place St. Louis faced fifth place Notre Dame (8½ wins) and found the going pretty rough. ND winners were GLEN ADAMS (284), CAROLINE COELLN (263-262 over TONY "I'm Not A Captain" KOZAK), and team Captain AL MORRISON (341). Morrison had a rather easy time with disappointed St. Lou Captain SCOTT MASSOIA (297). Massoia is the top dog in Men's A at 106.40 but fell under the guns of Morrison, the league's strongman at 120.18.

Saving some hay for St. Lou was leadoff roller TINA FRAPPIER. Her 294 won her team 67 pins. Tina leads Women's D at 87.21. Adams is top man in Men's B at 98.19 and Caroline Coelln is third in Women's B at 89.66.

Third place St. Anselm hooked horns vs. eighth place Georgetown (4 wins) and St. A's did some impressive rolling. St. A's winners were leadoff AUDREY PHILLIPS (265), STEVE BONESTEEL (302), and Captain LOU MULDREW (318). Muldrew set a big charge out of defeating G-Town's out-ofgot a big charge out of defeating G-Town's out-of-sinc captain, none other than DEBBIE POIRIER, the top women's roller at 103.34. On this night, Debbie could muster no better than a 273. The only G-Town winner was RICH SNYDER in a substitute role (339). Audrey Phillips is fourth in Women's C at 83.43 and Bonesteel is challenging in Men's B at 97.34 (second place).

St. Michael (4th place/10 wins) hopes to stay with the leaders and faced sixth place Catholic with the leaders and faced sixth place Catholic University (8 wins). But on this night, CU got the better of it when leadoff MARY THOMAS beganthings with a bang at 311. This was a good match as she defeated St. Mike's leadoff VENETTA SNYDER by 11 pins (300). Then, BONNIE MASSOIA defeated TERRY OUELLETTE, 277-274, and Captain JIM SNYDER defeated TOM "Not Tony" CURTIS in a rather luckluster affair, 295-273

St. Mike's third roller, PAUL LAGODITZ, had a good night by firing a 305. Mary Thomas moved her average to 92.36, good for third in Women's A. Bonnie Massoia is second in Women's A at 94.22, and Snyder, despite an off night, is still second in Man's A at 106.25. Men's AA at 106.25.

In the final match of the night, seventh place Holy Cross (7 wins) met sinking Fordham (9th place/4 wins). Fordham winners were RENEE JURY (272) and Captain OLLIE MULDREW (320). Jolly Ollie soundly defeated HC Captain LARRY VIENS (288). Muldrew is first in Men's AA at 108.54, while Viens is fifth in Men's AA at 99.48.

So there, Larry.
Winners for HC were leadoff BILLY ALDRICH (254) in a substitute role, and DON STITT (285). Stitt sits at the top of Men's C at 93.38. Renee Jury is top gal in Women's B at 93.3.

Riverside Announces Tentative Schedule Of Season Opener Events

It is time to fire up the engines and make sure they are off and racing at-Riverside Park Speedway. The tentative 1994 season opener schedule is out for Saturday, March 26th.

The popularity of the three divisions—Modified
Tour, Late Models, and Strictly Stocks—makes it a real competitive major event. Fact is, it is one of the first races to be held in the northeastern region of the country. This Budweiser special event has $1,600 in bonus money for heat and consolation winners, thereby making the Budweiser "Big Chill" the best season opener yet.

Due to insurance procedures the week before, the season opener practice has been cancelled. The opening day practice will be increased and benefit the competitors with plenty of extra practice on Saturday, March 26th.

Riverside officially opens the pit area at 10:00 a.m. (with over 100 cars expected). Pit space is limited, so competitors are advised to come early. Remember, all pit members must have a 1994 Riverside-approved NASCAR license. Inspection for all cars will be from 10:30 a.m., with no car allowed on the track unless safety-approved. The first of several rotating practices will begin at 12:00 noon, and each division will rotate and continue until 3:00 p.m.

At 3:00 p.m., the first Strictly Stock heats will be run, followed by consolation. Practice then resumes from 3:30 until 5:45 p.m. with a quick rotating session. The traditional drivers'/owners' meeting is at 5:45 p.m., with the National Anthem played at 5:55 p.m. The green flag will drop on the first feature race, which will open the program at 6:00 p.m. with a 20-lap Strictly Stock main event. Following this will be the qualifying heat races for the Late Models and Modified Tour time trials. Consolations will be presented next. The procedure will change with a 25-lap Late Model feature, and then the 75-lap Modified main event.

Pricing for the special event is $12.99 for adults, and $2.99 for kids (12 years of age and under). The pit fee for NASCAR members is just $15; VIP owner and driver's club members are free.

Riverside races each and every Saturday at 6:00 p.m. starting March 26th. For a free color schedule, season ticket information, rules, etc., call (413) 786-9300, ext. 3264, or write: Riverside Park Speedway, Box 307, Agawam, MA 01001.

Meservey Family Has Rich Tradition As Races In Pro Four Modified Division

It's called a Pro Four Modified-a four-cylinder race car with modified engine, high performance pistons, ported and polished heads, high-performance carbs, and it puts out close to 230 horsepower. The cars weigh an average of 1,800 pounds with the driver and a tank full of gas. The Pro Fours are a little different these days than back when Dan Meservey, Sr. started the whole division by just having fun.

That's how it happened, says Dan, Sr., who still runs the tour with both of his sons, Dan, Jr. and Doug. "I started out in Chatham, Massachusetts, running dune buggies in the sandpits," he relates. "In 1968, when it began, that's all it was ... a bunch of guys running dune buggies, chopped-up Volkswagons, and just having fun."

Dan, Sr. continues, "The guys started to get so many people watching and others wanting to join them in racing the buggies around, that they had to move to a bigger sandpit. With that came more and more people wanting to drive.

Thus, the Chatham Dune Buggy Association was born. With that came both good and bad times; a failed track effort for Dan, Sr. (which he still believes was a good idea) and a lifelong commitment to what later turned into the New England Mini Modified Association (NEMA).

Then, as NEMA, they took the show on the road. "The first big weekend we had," states Dan, Sr., "was in 1971. We ran Bear Ridge on a Friday night for $400, and Groveton, New Hampshire on Saturday night for $400. Then we we went to Rattlesnake Mountain, New Hampshire on Sunday afternoon for $200 because it was on the way home. The whole purse for the weekend was $1,000."

Times have certainly changed for the Meservey family and runners for the division, which is now called the Pro Four Racing Series. The name, which was changed after Dan, Sr. decided they needed to get rid of the word "Mini," still crops up from time to time.

With the new name Pro Four Racing Series and plenty of hard work working with promoters and tracks, the tour started getting more shows ... shows in Michigan, New Jersey, Canada, Florida, and recently Scotland (for the "older" Meservey).

The Pro Four Modifieds have had such names in their cars as Reggie Ruggiero, Jeff Fuller, Bug Stevens, Leo Cleary, Ted Christopher, and Rick Summers. Oh yes, and who could forget Bentley Warren, who (in one race) drove a Meservey car. As you can see, there have been some big names associated with these "Mini" modifieds.

From 1970 to 1992, the Pro Four Modifieds did a lot of touring around New England. Now, in 1994, for the first time the Pro Four Racing Series has what they call a home track this season at Riverside Park Speedway in Agawam, MA.

Riverside Park Speedway has run the Pro Fours occasionally in the last few years, but just recently when deciding on a fifth division, the speedway management decided on the Pro Four Modifieds for limited 1994 Sunday events totally run by Riverside.

With the time changing, the names are changing, too. The drivers are now coming into the division as young as 16 years of age. Now, names like Cleary, Stevens, Fuller, and Stern are being replaced by Dupuis (an 18 year-old female), Hirt, Super, Doucette, and D'Alessandro—all of whom are young guns who are out to prove themselves.

For rules and a schedule on the Pro Four Modifieds, write Riverside Park Speedway, Box 307, Agawam, MA 01001.
